GRADE I-III

Learning is active in the early Primary years classroom and therefore the assessment occurs while learning is happening. The best opportunities to assess student learning occur within natural classroom instructional encounters with students working individually and in small and whole groups. Assessment is frequent, well planned, and well organized so that teachers are able to assist each child in progressing towards meeting the kindergarten curriculum outcomes.

Therefore, teachers will use the assessment strategies of observing, listening and asking probing questions to assess children's achievement. In addition to documented observations, other assessment tools include anecdotal records, photographs, videotapes or tape recordings, checklists, work samples and portfolios.

GRADE IV - V

The school follows continuous and comprehensive system of assessing the children. Apart from frequent, well planned observations, children of grade IV & V will also have four rounds of scheduled formal assessments.
